18 II.

19 JURISDICTION AND VENUE

20 14. This Court has jurisdiction over this matter pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §1332 (federal diversity 21 jurisdiction) as one or more members of the proposed class are residents of a different state from 22 Defendant and the amount in controversy likely exceeds the jurisdictional amount required by 23 that code section. This Court also has jurisdiction pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §1332 (federal question 24 jurisdiction) as this action concerns a law of the United States.
25

26 15. Venue is appropriate in this District because members of the proposed class are residents 27 of the District and Defendants have committed torts within the Central District of California.
28

IV.2
FACTS APPLICABLE TO ALL COUNTS3
16. This is a consumer Class Action lawsuit pursuant to Federal Rules of Civil Procedure
4
23(a), (b)(1), (b)(2), and (b)(3).5
17. The claims in this matter concern Defendants' intentional exploitation of software on 6
Plaintiffs' mobile device for the purpose of tracking Plaintiffs' internet activities. Considering 7
that mobile advertising will soon be a $3 billion a year industry, it is no surprise that Defendants 8 are looking for every advantage to capture their share of this growing market. Indeed, 9 advertisers, website publishers, and ad networks are constantly seeking ways to better track their 10 web users and present them with targeted advertising relevant to their users' interests as 11 expressed through their browsing habits. Browser cookies are the traditional method that 12 advertisers track web users' preferences. Because cookies are not as useful for tracking user 13 movements on handheld mobile devices as they are on traditional non-hand held computers, 14 website publishers, advertisers, and ad networks had to come up with a way to better track the 15 browser movements of handheld device users.16
18. Defendants found the solution to their problem with HTML5. A large number of hand 19 held mobile devices, such as the iPhone, use HTML5 software to operate the mobile browsers on 20 these devices. The HTML5 software contains local storage databases that allow websites to 21 store information on these devices, which when used appropriately enhance internet browsing on 22 mobile devices. Defendants, specifically Ringleader Digital, found a way to exploit these 23 databases for their own advantage.24
25
19. According to its own website, Defendant Ringleader Digital, Inc. is "focused on being the 26 world's premier ad serving solution provider, delivering the online equivalent of ad serving 27 technology and functionality to the mobile and new media markets." Ringleader Media's 28

1 “solution” at issue in this case is Ringleader Digital’s “Media Stamp.” Ringleader Digital 2 describes its Media Stamp as “the mobile equivalent of an online ‘cookie.’” Ringleader goes on 3 to describe its Media Stamp as follows:

5 Media Stamp™ lets you identify and track unique mobile and new media users to 6 leverage ad-server functionality such as:

7

- 8 • Frequency Capping
- 9 • Unique Reporting
- 10 • Acquisition tracking

11 How does Media Stamp™ work? It captures a large number of attributes that identify the 12 environment in which a user’s advertising experience will occur. These attributes are 13 collected from a variety of Ringleader Digital advertising systems. Collected attributes 14 are weighted in terms of their discriminating capabilities, and used to determine if that 15 device is unique

16 20. As unclear as the preceding language may be, the way the Media Stamp program works
17 is deceptively simple. When a mobile website that uses Media Stamp is accessed, Ringleader’s
18 own databases collect information from the mobile device and the Media Stamp technology 19 assigns Plaintiff’s mobile device a “unique” identifying number. Ringleader stores this number 20 on its data base and also uses the HTML5 storage databases on the users’ hand held mobile 21 device to store the assigned “unique” identifying number. This HTML5 database is titled 22 “RLGUID,” which stands for Ringleader Global Unique ID. With a unique identifying number 23 that is assigned to a specific mobile device, Media Stamp allows Ringleader Digital, advertisers, 24 ad agencies and website publishers to track a user’s web browsing movements across the entire 25 internet and not just one particular website. The benefit for purposes of advertising is obvious-26 by tracking all the internet movements on the mobile device, advertisers and website publishers now have a detailed picture of Plaintiffs’ interests and likes, thereby allowing them to target mobile advertising specific to Plaintiffs’ interests.

27 21. Recognizing the potential of its Media Stamp program, Ringleader sought to license this 28

1 program to website publishers, advertisers, and ad agencies. Unsurprisingly, Ringleader Digital
2 is having little difficulty selling its product. The owners and/or operators of Surfline, CNN,
3 Travel Channel, go2.com, Whitepages.com, Accuweather, i.word.com, and Medialets contracted 4 with Ringleader to use the Media Stamp technology on their websites and, in the case of 5 Medialets, in their advertising services. What this means for Plaintiffs is that, unbeknownst to 6 him, when he visited a mobile web site through his mobile device that contracted to use
7 Ringmaster's Media Stamp technology, Ringmaster Digital's Media Stamp acquired information
8 from Plaintiffs' phone and assigned a unique ID to their mobile device. At the same time or 9 shortly thereafter- a matter of seconds at most- a new RLGUID database was created in the 10 mobile device's HTML5 software assigned to "a.ringleaderdigital.com," which now allows 11 Ringleader Digital to use the unique ID assigned by Media Stamp to track Plaintiffs' mobile 12 activities across all mobile websites. Companies that associate with Ringleader Digital are now 13 able to determine what targeted advertising best suits Plaintiffs' interests based on the 14 information gathered from Plaintiffs' mobile searches and browsing.
15

16       22. In addition to the "a.ringleaderdigital.com" database, when individuals use their mobile
17 devices to visit Surfline.com, CNNMoney.com, Travel Channel, Accuweather, Whitepages, 18 Merriam-Webster's i.word.com, and go2.com's mobile websites, RLGUID HTML5 databases
19 are created on their mobile devices and assigned to "mobile.surfline.com," "cnnmoney.mobi," 20 "m.travelchannel.com," "www.accuweather.com," "m.go2.com," "i.word.com," and 21 "m.whitepages.com," respectively. This allows Ringleader Digital and each of these mobile 22 website operators to track the mobile device's internet activities over multiple websites based on 23 the unique ID assigned to the mobile device and the HTML5 databases created on the mobile 24 devices as assigned and created by Defendants.
25

26       23. For a company like Medialets, the benefit of having access to a program like Media
27

1 Stamp is immense. Medialets is an advertising company that focuses on rich format mobile
2 advertising and analytics. As such, the ability to identify and track mobile device users over 3 multiple websites makes for a strong pitch to Medialets' potential clients. Or as better stated by a 4 representative of Medialets, with the Media Stamp technology, “[Medialets] is able to make the 5 process even more lucrative for publishers and advertisers by allowing them to tap into any of 6 Ringleader's participating clients.” The reason it is more lucrative is because Media Stamp will 7 allow Medialets' clients to “achieve full visibility into their mobile web and application 8 campaigns for the first time.” In other words, by contracting to bring Media Stamp into its 9 advertising and analytic services, Medialets is able to tell its clients that they will make more 10 money because Media Stamp allows Medialets, advertisers, and web publishers to track the 11 movements of mobile device users over multiple mobile websites, which provides better
12 information for targeted advertising efforts. This explains why in October of 2009, Medialets 13 proudly announced its decision to “integrate” Ringleader's Media Stamp technology into its 14 advertising and analytics services. From that point forward Medialets engaged in the 15 impermissible tracking of mobile users and assisted its clients, including CNNMoney and 16 Whitepages, in their tracking of visitors to their mobile sites. Thus, individuals that went to either 17 CNNMoney or Whitepages on their mobile device unknowingly had their actions on their mobile 18 browser tracked by Medialets, Ringleader Digital, CNN and Whitepages.

21 24. There are many obvious privacy concerns that arise from Defendants' actions described 22 above. The first obvious issue is the fact that a random third party, Ringleader Digital: (1)
23 unknowingly accessed and created databases on Plaintiffs' mobile devices as well as placed 24 information on Plaintiffs' mobile devices without Plaintiffs' knowledge or consent (2) assigned 25 Plaintiffs' mobile devices unique identification numbers for the purpose of tracking these devices,
26 and (3) stored information they acquired about Plaintiffs' phone and mobile browsing activities
27
28

1 on Ringleader Digital's databases. Plaintiffs' have no relationship with Ringleader that would 2 have in any way formed a basis to argue that Plaintiffs consented to the listed actions by 3 Ringleader.

4 25. Second, Plaintiffs' actions are being tracked by Defendants without Plaintiffs'
5 permission. If Plaintiffs' cleaned their cookies folder and deleted their browser history, this 6 would have no affect on Defendants' ability to continue to track Plaintiffs because the 7 information necessary to track Plaintiffs, the unique ID, is stored in the HTML5 databases.
8 Considering that cookies are the traditional way to track information across the internet, 9 Plaintiffs would have no reason to even consider looking elsewhere to determine if they are 10 being tracked. So, even if Plaintiffs were to take the traditional step to block advertisers and 11 websites from tracking their movements, Ringleader Digital's Media Stamp, as licensed and used 12 by the other Defendants, thwarted those efforts.

14 26. Third, to assign a unique ID to each mobile device and make its program worthwhile to 15 potential customers, Media Stamp needs to collect information from Plaintiffs' mobile devices to 16 distinguish it from other mobile devices. As such, Ringleader Digital, at a minimum, collected
17 "browser identifiers, session information, device type, carrier provider, IP addresses, unique 18 device ID, carrier user ID and web sites visited." While it is unclear if they collect telephone 19 numbers and specific names, piecing this information together makes it easier to personally
20 identify the mobile device owners. More to the point, however, is that Ringleader acquired 21 important information about Plaintiffs and their mobile devices without Plaintiffs' permission or 22 knowledge.

25 27. Fourth, even if a mobile device user, such as Plaintiffs, is able to locate the HTML5
26 databases on their mobile device created by Defendants, Plaintiffs are unable to delete the 27 databases. That is because if a database is deleted from a phone it simply recreates itself only

1 moments later. In other words, if a mobile device user is able to find the RLGUID database
2 assigned to "cnnmoney.mobi" and deletes the database from his device, the "cnnmoney.mobi"
3 database will recreate itself on the mobile device. This is clear evidence of Defendants attempt 4 to further thwart the efforts of mobile device users to protect their privacy.

5 28. Fifth, once a mobile device is given a unique identification number by Ringleader 6 Digital's Media Stamp technology and a RLGUID database assigned to 7 "a.ringleaderdigital.com" is created on the mobile device, neither can be removed for the life of 8 the device. This allows Ringleader Digital continual access to the mobile devices and the 9 continual ability to track Plaintiffs' movements on the internet. As such, once Ringleader Digital 10 "stamps" a mobile device, that unique number and the database assigned for that number are 11 forever a part of the device without ever requesting the Plaintiffs' permission to do so.

12 29. Sixth, CNN, Surfline, Accuweather, go2.com, Whitepages, Merriam-Webster's and 13 Travel Channel's privacy policies inadequately inform Plaintiffs of the extent in which they are 14 being tracked by an unidentified third party, Ringleader Digital, and how Media Stamp works.
15 In fact, most of the Defendants' sites fail to address or identify Ringleader and Media Stamp at 16 all. Accuweather, Surfline, Go2.com and CNNmoney.mobile do not even have a privacy policy 17 on their mobile webpage. Even on Surfline, Merriam-Webster's, and CNNMoney.com's full 18 webpage there is no mention of the use of Media Stamp or any type of data collection other than 19 standard cookies and web beacons, which are not at issue here. Whitepages' policies refer to 20 advertising agencies that may collect information, but when you choose to opt out of their 21 advertisers' services, the only mention is cookies. All these privacy policies have something in 22 common- no mention of Ringleader Digital, Media Stamp, or HTML5 databases.
23
24

25 30. The only mobile site that even mentions Ringleader.com is Travel Channel. However, all
26 they do is link to Ringleader Digital's policies without even spending a sentence to truthfully
27

1 explain what type of company Ringleader Digital is and to describe how Ringleader collects data
2 from the mobile device. Ringleader's own policies are not much more forthcoming. The words
3 "HTML5 database" are conspicuously absent, and there is no explanation of the unique ID
4 assigned to the mobile device. Instead, what you see is a constant reference to cookies and 5 vague references to other technologies. After reading the policy, mobile Plaintiffs are left to 6 believe that Ringleader Digital's monitoring techniques are no different than the good old
7 cookies people are familiar with and know how to block. Ringleader Digital's policies leave
8 Plaintiffs in the dark as to how their browsing habits are being monitored and the permanence of 9 the monitoring. So even if a Plaintiffs take the time to track down and read these convoluted 10 privacy policies written in legalese, they still have no idea that a database has been created on 11 their mobile device, that their device has now been assigned a unique ID number, that neither can 12 be removed for the life of the phone, and that their entire browsing habits are being monitored by 13 the Defendants.

15       31. The reality is that even a well written privacy policy is woefully inadequate in this 16 circumstance. Before Plaintiffs can get to and read the lengthy privacy policy on the 17 Defendants' website, Ringleader Digital has already scanned the device for relevant information
18 that is downloaded to Ringleader Digital's database, created a permanent unique identification
19 number for that mobile device that exists as long as the mobile device exists, and created a 20 database on the mobile device that cannot be removed from the mobile device. As such, even if 21 the Plaintiffs read the privacy policy on the mobile sites webpage, is able to comprehend from 22 that policy that the website and Ringleader Digital are tracking the Plaintiffs' activities on the 23 mobile device, and decides to no longer go to that website, the damage is already done. The 24 Defendants have already impermissibly hacked into Plaintiffs' mobile device, began tracking the 25 Plaintiffs, and acquired the necessary information and tools to continue tracking the Plaintiffs'
26
27
28

1 activities. All of this happens before Plaintiffs even have the chance to say "no thank you."
2 This wrong cannot be overcome no matter how well written the privacy agreement is. As such,
3 all the Defendants need to be held accountable for their actions.

4 IV.

5 CAUSE OF ACTIONS

6 COUNT 1 – COMPUTER FRAUD AND ABUSE ACT, 18 U.S.C. § 1030

7 32. Plaintiffs incorporate by reference each proceeding and succeeding paragraph as though
8 set forth fully at length herein.

9 33. By placing creating HTML5 databases on the computers of Plaintiffs and members of the 10 class, Defendants acting individually or in concert have accessed Plaintiffs' computers, in the 11 course of interstate commerce and/or communication, in excess of the authorization provided by 12 Plaintiffs as described in 18 U.S.C. § 1030(a)(2)(C).

13 34. Defendants acting individually or in concert violated 18 U.S.C. § 1030(a)(2)(C) by 14 intentionally accessing Plaintiffs' and members of the class's computers without authorization 15 and/or by exceeding the scope of that authorization.

16 35. Plaintiffs computers, and those of the class, are protected computers pursuant to 18 17 U.S.C. § 1030(e)(2)(B).

18 36. Defendants acting individually or in concert thus further violated the Act by causing the 19 transmission of a program, information, code or command and as a result causing harm to the 20 protected computer aggregating at least $5,000 in value.

21 37. Defendants actions were knowing and/or reckless and caused harm to Plaintiffs and 22 members of the proposed class.

23 38. Plaintiffs seek recovery for these damages, as well as injunctive relief, to prevent future 24 harm.

COUNT II – CALIFORNIA’S COMPUTER CRIME LAW

CALIFORNIA PENAL CODE § 502

3 39. Plaintiffs incorporate by reference each preceding and succeeding paragraph as though
4 set forth fully at length herein.

5       40. Defendant's actions, individually or in concert, constitute a violation of California Penal 6       Code § 502 as Defendants knowingly accessed data belonging to Plaintiffs and members of the 7       proposed class in the State of California and/or through servers located in the State of California.

9       41. Such access was without authorization and caused damage to Plaintiffs and members of 10      the proposed class.

11       42. Plaintiffs have suffered irreparable injury from this unauthorized access to their 12 computers.

13       43. Plaintiffs seek all remedies available under the Act, including injunctive relief and 14      recovery of reasonable attorneys' fees.

COUNT III - CONSUMER LEGAL REMEDIES ACT
CALIFORNIA CIVIL CODE § 1750 ("CLRA").

17 44. Plaintiffs incorporate by reference each preceding and succeeding paragraph as though
18 set forth fully at length herein.

20       45. Defendants, acting individually or in concert, failed to disclose the fact that they were 21 placing an HTML5 database on Plaintiffs' and members of the Class's computers. Plaintiffs, and 22 members of the class, would not ordinarily expect for HTML5 databases to be used for anything 23 other than their intended purposes and would not expect that they would be used to track their 24 mobile online web browsing behavior.

25 46. Plaintiffs and members of the Class would certainly not expect anything to be placed on 26 their computers that were designed to thwart their will by replacing databases that had been 27 deleted by Plaintiffs and members of the class.
28

47. Such actions by Defendants constitute deceptive and unfair acts and practices pursuant to CLRA.

48. Defendants' actions were intended to, and in fact, likely resulted in sales to Plaintiffs and members of the class.

49. Plaintiffs and members of the proposed class are consumers under the CLRA.

50. Defendants, acting individually or in concert, violated the act in at least the following ways: 1) representing that their services have characteristics, uses, and benefits that they do not have; 2) representing that their services are of a particular standard, grade, quality which they are not; and/or 3) advertising their services with the intent to not sell them as advertised.

51. Such actions have caused harm to the Plaintiffs and the Class. Plaintiffs and the proposed class seek to remedy this harm by appropriate injunctive relief.

COUNT IV – UNFAIR COMPETITION LAW.

CALIFORNIA BUSINESS AND PROFESSIONS CODE § 17200

52. Plaintiffs incorporate by reference each preceding and succeeding paragraph as though set forth fully at length herein.

53. Defendants' above-described actions constitute unlawful and unfair competition within the meaning of the Unfair Competition Law

54. Defendants' actions constitute false advertising in that they failed to disclose to Plaintiffs and members of the proposed class the precise nature of the information which was being placed on Plaintiffs' computers and those of the proposed class

55. Furthermore, as described in the other counts in this Complaint, Defendants' actions were in violation of several statutes and therefore unlawful.

56. Plaintiffs and members of the proposed class have been harmed by Defendants' actions

57. Plaintiffs and the proposed class seek damages for this harm as well as injunctive relief to 1 remedy this harm.

2

3 COUNT V – CALIFORNIA INVASION OF PRIVACY ACT,

4 CALIFORNIA PENAL CODE § 630

5 68. Plaintiffs incorporate by reference each proceeding and succeeding paragraph as though
6 set forth fully at length herein.

7 69. Defendants' actions, individually or in concert, of intercepting and monitoring Plaintiffs'
8 and members of the proposed class web surfing activities through the use of HTML5 databases
9 constitutes an intentional attempt to intercept or to learn the contents of any message, report or 10 communication which is in transit passing over a telephone cable, line or wire instrument.

11 70. Plaintiffs and members of the proposed class did not consent to such interception or 12 attempted interceptions.

13 71. Defendants were not justified under the Statute to attempt to intercept or to intercept 14 Plaintiffs' and members of the class's communications.

15 72. Plaintiffs and the proposed class seek damages for this harm as well as injunctive relief to 16 remedy this harm.

17

18 COUNT VI – TRESPASS TO PERSONAL PROPERTY

19 73. Plaintiffs incorporate by reference each proceeding and succeeding paragraph as though
20 set forth fully at length herein.

21 74. By placing an HTML5 database on Plaintiffs' and members of the Class's computers
22 without their consent or knowledge, Defendants have improperly exercised dominion and control 23 over Plaintiffs' and members of the Class's personal property – their computer.

24 75. Defendants' actions were done knowingly and intentionally.

26 76. Defendants' actions caused harm to Plaintiffs and members of the proposed class.

27 77. Plaintiffs and the proposed class seek damages for this harm as well as injunctive relief to

1 remedy this harm.

2 COUNT VI – UNJUST ENRICHMENT

3 68. Plaintiffs incorporate by reference each preceding and succeeding paragraph as though
4 set forth fully at length herein.

5 69. Defendants, acting individually or in concert, have improperly and illegally profited from 6 the obtainment and/or sale of Plaintiffs' and members of the class's personal, private data.
7 Defendants' actions have been done knowingly and secretly with the intent that Plaintiffs not 8 realize what was being done.

9 70. These actions constitute violations of both statutory as well as common law obligations 10 as outlined above.

12 71. Defendants' actions caused harm to Plaintiffs and members of the proposed class.

13 72. Plaintiffs and the proposed class seek damages for this harm as well as injunctive relief to 14 remedy this harm.

15 73. Defendants should not, in equity, be allowed to retain their ill begotten gains. Plaintiffs 16 therefore seek recovery under the equitable theory of unjust enrichment.

18 I.

19 CLASS ACTION ALLEGATIONS

20 74. Pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(b)(3), and 23(b)(2) Plaintiffs bring this action on behalf of 21 themselves, and all others similarly situated, as representatives of the following class (the 22 "Class"):

23 U.S. Resident Class: Each and every individual who owns or 24 owned a mobile hand held computer, including but limited to 25 mobile phones and laptops, that had a "RLGUID" database or 26 any other identifying tag or mark placed on that device by any of the Defendants through the use of the HTML5 database feature.

27 California Resident Class: All residents of California that own or 28 owned a mobile hand held computer, including but limited to

1 mobile phones and laptops, that had a “RLDGUID” database or 2 any other identifying tag or mark placed on that device by any of the Defendants through the use of the HTML5 database feature.

3 Injunctive Class: All persons after the date of the filing of this 4 complaint, residing in the United States, that own or owned a
5 mobile hand held computer, including but limited to mobile phones
6 and laptops, that had a “RLDGUID” database or any other identifying tag or mark placed on that device by any of the Defendants through the use of the HTML5 database feature.

7 The Class action period, (the “Class Period”), pertains to the date, two 8 years preceding the date of this filing to the date of Class certification, that an individual that owned or owns owned a 9 mobile hand held computer, including but limited to mobile phones
10 and laptops, had a “RLDGUID” database or any other identifying tag or mark placed on that device by any of the Defendants 11 through the use of the HTML5 database feature.

12 Excluded from the class are Defendants as well as all employees of 13 this Court, including, but not limited to, Judges, Magistrate Judges, clerks and court staff and personnel of the United States District 14 Courts of the Central District of California, the United States Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit and the United States Supreme 15 Court; their spouses and any minor children living in their households and other persons within a third degree of relationship 16 to any such Federal Judge; and finally, the entire jury venire called 17 for jury service in relation to this lawsuit. Also excluded from the class are any attorneys or other employees of any law firms hired, 18 retained and/or appointed by or on behalf of the named Plaintiffs to represent the named Plaintiffs and any/or any proposed class members or proposed class in this lawsuit.

19 Furthermore, to the extent that undersigned counsel has any legal 20 interest to damages or other monetary relief, or other relief due to 21 the putative class (or any other rights as potential putative class members), arising as a result of the causes of action asserted in this 22 litigation, such interest is hereby disclaimed by undersigned counsel.

23 75. The requirements of Fed. R. Civ. P. 23 are met in this case. The Class, as defined, is so 24 numerous that joinder of all members is impracticable. Although discovery will be necessary to 25 establish the exact size of the class, it is likely, based on the nature of Defendants’ business, that it 26 numbers in the millions.

1       76. There are questions of fact and law common to the Class as defined, which common
2       questions predominate over any questions affecting only individual members. The common 3       questions include:

4           a. whether Defendants, as a regular practice, placed "RLDGUID" databases on 5           members of the class's hand held mobile computers; and 6           b. whether Defendants failed to disclose material terms regarding the placing 7           of "RLDGUID" databases on members of the class's hand held mobile 8           computers; and 9           c. what use was made of such "RLDGUID" databases, including whether they 10           were used for purposes of tracking individuals web surfing and whether 11           personal information was obtained regarding members of the class; and 12           d. whether "RLDGUID" databases were designed to recreate even after they 13           were deleted from class members' hand held mobile computers so as to 14           thwart the class members' attempt to not be tracked by Defendants.

15       77. Plaintiffs can and will fairly and adequately represent and protect the interests of the 16       Class as defined and have no interests that conflict with the interests of the Class. This is so 17       because:

18           a. All of the questions of law and fact regarding the liability of the Defendants 19           are common to the class and predominate over any individual issues that 20           may exist, such that by prevailing on their own claims, Plaintiffs will 21           necessarily establish the liability of the Defendants to all class members;
22           b. Without the representation provided by Plaintiffs, it is unlikely that any 23           class members would receive legal representation to obtain the remedies
24           specified by relevant statutes and the common law;
25           c. Plaintiffs have retained competent attorneys who are experienced in the 26           conduct of class actions. Plaintiffs and their counsel have the necessary 27           resources to adequately and vigorously litigate this class action, and 28           Plaintiffs and their counsel are aware of their fiduciary responsibility to the

1 class members and are determined to diligently discharge those duties to 2 obtain the best possible recovery for the Class.

3 78. Defendants' actions have affected numerous consumers in a similar way. The class action
4 is superior to any other method for remedying Defendants' actions given that common questions
5 of fact and law predominate. Class treatment is likewise indicated to ensure optimal 6 compensation for the Class and limiting the expense and judicial resources associated with 7 thousands of potential claims.

8 WHEREFORE, Plaintiffs demand judgment on their behalf and on behalf of the other 9 members of the Class to the following effect:

11 a. declaring that this action may be maintained as a class action;
12 b. granting judgment in favor of Plaintiffs and the other members of the Class
13 against the Defendants;
14 c. treble and/or punitive damages should the Court find that the Defendants 15 acted in willful or reckless disregard of the law;
16 d. injunctive relief preventing Defendant from further using "Flash Cookies" 17 and/or requiring more detailed disclosure and informed consent from the 18 class regarding their use; and 19 e. such other relief as the Court deems appropriate.

20

21 DEMAND FOR JURY TRIAL

22 Plaintiffs demand a trial by jury of all issues so triable.
